

Social Media Policy

Thank you for visiting Renaissance Advisory Group on social media, including LinkedIn and other platforms where we may maintain a presence. As a registered investment advisory firm operating in a highly regulated industry, we are subject to rules governing the use of social media and communications with the public.

For this reason, we may not be able to respond to every comment, question, or message. We may also remove comments or other content that we believe is misleading, exaggerated, fraudulent, offensive, or otherwise inconsistent with applicable regulations or the purpose of our social media pages. If we do not respond or remove a comment, please understand that it is intended to help us maintain an appropriate and compliant forum.

Comments, reviews, or other statements posted by third parties should not be interpreted as testimonials or endorsements of Renaissance Advisory Group or its investment advisory services.

Likes, Follows & Other Social Media Activity

Renaissance Advisory Group's use of social media features such as "likes," follows, shares, or similar interactions does not constitute an endorsement or recommendation of the individual, organization, product, service, or content associated with that activity.

Likewise, the presence of followers, connections, or other interactions on our social media pages should not be interpreted as a testimonial, endorsement, or indication of investment performance or client satisfaction.

General Information Only

Content shared through Renaissance Advisory Group's social media pages is provided for general informational and educational purposes only. Nothing posted on these pages should be considered individualized investment, financial, tax, or legal advice, or a recommendation to buy or sell any security.

Renaissance Advisory Group reserves the right to modify, remove, or restrict access to content on its social media pages as appropriate and as permitted by applicable law and regulation.
